Why can't I use certain features of the Codification?

While all Codification content is the same in both Basic View and Professional View, advanced features are only available with Professional View. To view the list of Professional View features and functionality, or to access those additional features by purchasing the Professional View, please go to the FASB Store.

How can I leave feedback?

After entering the Basic View, scroll down the main window of the home page to the Help section and select the "General Feedback" link. Select the type of feedback, enter your comment, and click Submit. If your feedback refers to a specific paragraph, include the paragraph number in your comment.

Where can I find the Other Sources documents?

Electronic versions of Accounting Standards Updates, Proposed Accounting Standards Updates, Other Exposure Documents, Pre-Codification Standards (Superseded Standards), and Concepts Statements are available in the STANDARDS and REFERENCE LIBRARY sections of the FASB website.

The most recent Maintenance Updates are available in the ASC. After entering the Basic View, scroll down the main window of the home page to the What's New section.

What are the differences between the Basic View and the Professional View of the Codification?

Basic View is free and may be accessed without creating an account or logging in. Features include:

- Topically organized access to all authoritative nongovernmental U.S. GAAP, including relevant SEC content.
- Utility to identify the location of original standards. A cross-reference report may be generated, but the links in the resulting report will NOT be active. The Cross-Reference report may be found by accessing the Tools link, towards the bottom of the left navigation pane, then selecting "Cross-Reference & Sourcing Tool.")

Professional View offers a host of enhanced functionality, and account management and profile features, through paid access. See <https://asc.fasb.org/> for a list of features and functionality.

- A Single User Subscription allows a primary user. Those credentials may not be shared, and are limited to the single credentialed user.
- A Multiple User Subscription allows for a predetermined number of users who can simultaneously access the Codification.

How do I add additional concurrent users to my multiple seat account?

Please contact FASB support at fasbpubs@fasb.org for assistance with changing your subscription to add additional concurrent users.

How do I change the account administrator?

Please contact FASB Support at fasbpubs@fasb.org for assistance with changing your account's administrator.

How do I grant administrative privileges to another user?

If you are the account administrator, please contact FASB Support at fasbpubs@fasb.org.

I am NOT an account administrator and am receiving an error message that says, "You have already reached the maximum number of concurrent user sessions allowed by your subscription." What should I do?

Your account administrator has purchased a defined number of seats. If you are not an account administrator, please contact your account administrator so they can determine if they wish to purchase additional seats, or you may wait for a seat to become available once a current user logs out.

I am an account administrator. My account's users are seeing an error message that says, "You have already reached the maximum number of concurrent user sessions allowed by your subscription." What should I do?

If you are an account administrator, you may either purchase additional seats to reduce the likelihood of reaching maximum numbers of seats allowed, or, if you believe that no additional seats are needed, you may manage the number of current seats by accessing <https://asc.fasb.org>. You will see a message that says, "You have reached the maximum number of concurrent user sessions allowed by your subscription." Beneath that message, you will see a list of users currently logged in. Click Log Out beside the session(s) you would like to drop.

OR, as the account administrator, you can leverage the "Current Activity" page from the My Account>My Subscription link in the lower section of the left navigation pane in order to see a list of users already using the application with a Logout button in front of their names. Click Log out to drop the users.

How many users can log in to my account at one time?

For each concurrent user license you purchase for your account, you may register up to nine (9) additional users. For example, if you purchase a five-user license, you may register an additional forty-five (45) individuals who can access the product. (In this example, only ten users would be able to log in and use the product simultaneously.)

If you need to register more than the maximum number of users your license allows, you can either remove some of the existing users from your account or purchase an additional license. You can find the number of concurrent user seats for your account clicking My Account tab.

Can I cancel my account?

Subscriptions to the FASB Codification are not refundable. Your account will be available through the end of the current term, and will terminate at the expiration date.

How can I monitor account usage on user accounts?

Account administrators can view certain account activity for the most recent three months ended.
